PUNCTUATION

Concept

The main purpose of punctuation is to make the meaning of a written passage clear to the reader. Using unnecessary punctuation, however, may distort its meaning, only its appropriate use helps.

The punctuation serves one of four general purpose of writing

- A) to terminate B) to separate
- C) to introduce D) to enclose a thought

A) Terminal marks or End punctuation

- i Full stop or period - (•)
- ii Question mark - ?
- iii Exclamation mark - !

B) Full stop:

The period indicates the end of a sentence or a statement.

e.g.: You look very smart in this dress

Full stop is used after common abbreviations

as Dr., Mr., M.B.B.S., P.m., a.m.,

After capital letters Roman numerals

I. II. III.

- a) comma (,)
- b) Semicolon (;)
- c) A dash (-)
- d) A hyphen (-)
- e) An apostrophe ('')
- f) Comma:

The comma is the most frequently used punctuation mark to separate or start sentence elements. Every mark of punctuation is a sort of road sign provided to help the reader along his way.

eg: We sell Fuel, oil, and lumber.

b) semicolon

The semicolon marks a longer pause but a shorter one than a full stop.

It is properly used only b/w elements of a sentence that are coordinate i.e. of equal grammatical rank

eg. We should help them now; later will be no use.

Hyphens:

The main purpose of a hyphen is to join two words together, making them a single compound word, with its own meaning.

Concept:

A homonyms is a word having the same sound, or the same spelling and sound as another which has a different meaning.

A homophone - a letter having the same sound as another - is also included in homonyms.

These words cause a lot of confusion to the non-native speakers of English due to their similar sound. At times the confusion is also caused by their wrong pronunciation.

Notes:

Gate : (n) entrance to a house / building

gait : (n) a way of walking

Radha excepted Basu's proposal

Radha accepted Basu's proposal.

accept (to receive; to agree)

except : (to exclude sb/sth from sth)

Do you remember her date of birth?

Do you remember her date of berth?

birth (n) the process of being born

berth (n) a place to sleep on a ship or train

eg: An ex-President is a former President.

d) The dash (-)

The dash, an emphatic mark of punctuation, is most often used to indicate a sudden interruption in thought, a sharp break.

The dash is made by two hyphens (- -)

eg: What he needed most he never got-love.

e) Apostrophe:

The apostrophe marks the omission of a letter in certain words.

The apostrophe also denotes the possessive,

eg. The lady's gloves.

Thomas's car is red.

c) Enclosing marks of punctuation

Enclose marks are always used in pairs.

eg. " " " " () []

- Double quotation marks denote direct speech

"Let's wait for him" He may come soon.

4. My friend ran a five km race.	My friend ran a five km race.
5. She bought six dozens of apples.	She bought six dozen of apples.

Pronouns.

Concept

A pronoun is a word used in place of a noun. To understand what a pronoun is look at the example.

Example :

Gandhi is called the father of the nation

He was born in Gujarat.

He is a pronoun.

Function

Like a noun a pronoun can also

i) Question Mark.

If a statement is in the form of a question, we use a question mark (?) to end the sentence.
eg:- Does he really love her?

Notes:-

A question mark is not used after a polite request.

We use a question mark to indicate a series of queries in the sentence.

We never use a question mark at the end of an indirect question.

ii) Exclamation mark (!)

We use words like exclaimed or wondered, depending on what kind of expression has been used.

Eg:-

What a beautiful house!

No one can ever trust her!

B) Punctuation marks of separation

For writing to be clear, sometimes individual words or groups of words must be separated from others in the same sentence.

We use five marks to separate parts of a sentence.

Modern classification

Countable and Uncountable

Countable nouns are those that can be counted like 1, 2, 3... e.g.: boy, girl, chair and Uncountable nouns are those that cannot be counted e.g. truth, milk, love and honesty.

Only countable nouns have their plural forms. The uncountable nouns don't.

Nouns Used Always plural

Words like: news, scissors, trousers, pants, thanks, blessings,ights, the Pyjamat.

Zero Plurals

Here the singular and plural forms of a noun are the same. No separate plural form for them is used.

Example
